INDIAN CENTRAL COTTON COMMITTEE

[Incorporated by Indian Cotton Cess Act, 1923]

Office—14, Nicol rd, Ballard Estate, Bombay-1

Presdt M S Randhawa i cs (ex-officio). Vice-presdt M R Ruia. Secy B L Sethi M Sc, PhD (Wales). Depty secy K Dharmarajulu M sc. Asst secy T T Paulose BA, IXB, cert, A 11 B

The Indian Central Cotton Committee was constituted by the Govt of India in March 1921, as a result of the recommendation of the Indian Cotton Committee of 1917-18. Originally the Committee was purely an advisory body, but with its incorporation under the Indian Cotton Cess Act in 1923, it became an administrative body having at its disposal funds for the improvement and development of the growing, marketing and manufacture of cotton in India. The funds of the Committee are derived from the cotton cess of four annas per bale imposed under the Indian Cotton Cess Act, 1923. In addition, the Committee also receive grants from the Cotton Fund of the Government of India from time to time for schemes intended for the benefit of cotton growers. The Committee is at present spending about Rs. 18.5 lakhs per annum on cotton improvement, mainly on agricultural and technological research and seed distribution and* marketing schemes

The activities of the Committee now extend to all branches of cotton improvement in India, and, as an authoritative body to advise the Central and State Governments on important matters of cotton policy, It has attained sn outstanding position. The Committee provides funds for research into cotton problems of all India importance and for the development, extension and marketing of improved varieties of cotton. The aim, however ha? always been to supplement and not supplant the work of the Agricultural Departments in the various cotton growing States. Including as it does representatives of growers* agricultural officers, traders, spinners and manufacturers, it has been an invaluable forum for the discussion of many problems of general concern

Amongst the research schemes of the Committee, plant breeding schemes for the improvement of quality and yield naturally take pride of place. The agencies employed by the Committee for its research work have varied little in character since 1923, though they have grown in number. It continues to maintain a Technological Laboratory at Bombay which includes a complete experimental spinning plant and a scientific laboratory for research on the cotton fibre and a Testing House which is recognised by the B I S F A. The Committee also provided a large proportion of the funds for the Institute of Plant Industry, Indore

For a considerable period the Committee restricted its grants to agricultural research, but in 1930 it was decided that the time had come to aid its support to the efforts already being made to bridge the gap between the experiment station and the cultivator and to supplement the funds which the Agricultural Departments were devoting to the introduction of improvements into agricultural practice. Special attention from that time began to be devoted to seed distribution schemes

The Committee has not stopped at the production of better cotton, but from its inception has devoted special attention also to better marketing, to the prevention of adulteration and other abuses and to many other problems connected with the cotton trade of the country. Regulated Cotton Markets existed in Berar before the establishment of the Committee and that system which stood the test of time was commended with certain modification for general adoption. Regulated Cotton Markets have now been established in Bombay, Madhya Pradesh, Madras, Punjab, Andhra and Mysore. Similarly on the recommendation of the Committee, the Cotton Transport Act was passed in 1923 by which the State Governments are empowered to prohibit import into any specified area of Cotton, Kapas or seed from outside unless required for a special purpose and covered by a licence. Prior to the passing of this Act, inferior cottons used to be imported in large quantities into the staple cotton tracts for purpose of adulteration, to the detriment of the reputation of several valuable cottons. The Act is now in force in almost all the important staple cotton, area of Bombay, Madras, Madhya Pradesh, Andhra, etc. In 1925, on the recommendation of the Committee, the Cotton Ginning and Pressing Factories Act was passed. This provides for a certain measure of control of ginning and pressing factories and specially for the marking of all bales of cotton pressed with a press mark and serial number which enables them to be traced to their origin. The Act in its application to certain states has been amended for the licensing of gins and presses and for the prevention of watering and for the mixing of cotton. The Committee has also taken steps to bring to the notice of the trade both in India and abroad, those improved varieties which are now grown on a commercial scale.

It may also be stated without hesitation that, as a result of the efforts of the Committee, the last thirty three years have been a marked change in the character of the Indian crop, particularly in the percentage of short and medium staple. Equally important is the result of agricultural research and its application to the yield of cotton per acre. The average yield per acre rose from about 81 lbs in 1947-48 to 89 lbs in 1954-55. Dunn*. 1955-56, however, due to unfavourable seasonal conditions, the yield has gone down to 88 lbs. The ascertained area under improved cotton during 1955-56 was about 75 per cent of the total. The ultimate ideals to encourage the establishment of single variety tracts wherever agricultural conditions and the limitations of irrigation water and soil make this possible

These mills make cloth that will never shrink out of fit!

THE trade mark 'SANFORIZED' helps the mills of India sell their goods in all the great fabric markets of the world — for the label 'Sanforized' on Indian cloth means the same as it does on the cloth of any other country.
